EXCITED ONALASKA MIN THOUGHT PRETTY FIANCEE DRUGGED AND SPIRITED AWAY

CHAS. COMEAU HAS MARSHALL SEARCH

INVESTIGATION UNAVAILING—WILL SEE FATHER

CHARGES OF ABUSE ARE MADE

Girl Has Gone Away From the City to Escape Him, Says Mrs. J. A. Hurd, Her Mother

Openly proclaiming his belief that Birdie Hurd, his erstwhile sweetheart and fiancee, had been drugged and hidden from him by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hurd, Charles Comeau, a well known Onalaska youth, created considerable excitement in the neighboring city Sunday by enlisting the temporary town marshal, John Mackey, in an expedition to search the Hurd residence for traces of the missing girl.

The imbroglio in which this particular love affair has thrown the principals has excited the whole citizenship of Onalaska.

Yesterday young Comeau, who has something of a reputation as a baseball player, announced he had been unable to find Miss Birdie Hurd, his sweetheart, for several days, and that he was convinced her parents had

HOMES ARE ROBBED DURING DAYLIGHT

THIEVES ENTER GABEL AND HUNT RESIDENCES

STEAL WATCH AND SOME CASH

Police are Notified that Have Found no Trace of the Thieves Who May Prove to be Boys.

Robbers entered the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Gabel, 61 Pine street, some time yesterday evening and succeeded in stealing a gold watch and a pocketbook containing a small amount of money.

The robbery was committed, as near as can be ascertained, about 6 o'clock, while the family was on the front porch of the house. The first knowledge of the robbery was when Miss Tillie Gabel, one of the daughters, a nurse at the Lutheran hospital, opened her pocketbook to get some car fare and found it empty.

Miss Gabel had been visiting during the afternoon with her mother and sister and left about 6 o'clock for the hospital. She got on the car and opened her pocketbook to get the fare, and found it rifled. She immediately telephoned her mother to see if she had taken it for any purpose.

This led to an investigation which resulted in the discovery that a watch and other small valuables had been taken.

The police were notified of the robbery and they succeeded in following the tracks of parties who had been prowling around the house, through the alley from Pine to Badger streets. From here on, however, all trace of the burglars was lost the parties taking to the sidewalk on Badger street.

This is the third robbery that has occurred in the neighborhood within the last few days, the house of C. A. Hunt on Sixth and Pine streets being entered and robbed Wednesday afternoon.

As near as can be judged this robbery was committed some time during the afternoon.

The only one in the house at the time was Mrs. Hunt's mother, an old lady. Mrs. Hunt's hand-bag containing her pocketbook and two dollars in cash was taken and $1.50 extracted from one of the rooms upstairs.

The police were not notified of the robbery and no trace has been found.

The house of J. S. Kerr, 316 North Seventh street, was also entered one day last week, the robbers securing $3.55. This was taken from the purse of Mrs. Kerr.

Members of the family were engaged in different parts of the house at the time of the robbery but one neard anything out of the ordinary.

It is the belief of some, that the robberies are the work of boys but others think that they were committed by tramps, there having been a number begging around the neighborhood for the last few days. On Wednesday afternoon a man was seen by one of the residents of the district, gazing in the windows of one of the residences. But he disappeared later.

The pocketbook stolen from the Hunt residence was found later under Hixon's barn one block away.

O. I. FITZ IS ENGAGED

O. I. Fitz, late manager of the Empire Lumber company of Winona, has been secured as manager of the R. C. Kuhn Sash & Door company of La Crosse, and has assumed his duties. He succeeds R. C. Kuhn who left the company as manager about a year ago.

Mr. Fitz is a practical man for the position, and one who has had long experience in the business. For fifteen years, prior to his going to Winona, he was assistant manager of the Rock Island Sash & Door works, a very large institution of its kind.

WARNING SIGNS POSTED

The "$25 reward" signs of the La Crosse motorboat club to be posted upon boat houses of members, are being posted today and the reward will be in force immediately after the signs are up. The signs are in the hands of Secretary and Treasurer W. V. Kidder of the club from whom members may secure them. Numbers for the various boat houses in the club have also been decided upon, and will be posted with the signs. These numbers should be at least twelve inches high, so that they may be seen from a distance.

WILSON'S NEW FAST HORSE HAS ARRIVED

RICHARD LOWNDES IS CALLED SUPERIOR OF THE PRESIDENT

HE ALSO BUYS FAST COLT

Two Brothers of The President, One Full, One by Breeding, Are Now La Crosse Property

Richard Lowndes, of Danville, Ky., has come to La Crosse

He is the new horse purchased by R. T. Wilson in Danville, Ky., to replace the late lamented President. Mr. Wilson came in the car with his new find, which is his own pick of the celebrated Cecil Bros.' stable. The horse is pronounced to be a beauty, in matter of points the superior of his predecessor.

Richard Lowndes, named after the governor of Maryland is a brother by breeding to the The President. His pedigree follows:

Richard Lowndes, standard and registered foaled 1904. Brown colt by Gametta Wilkes

1st dam, Clementine, 2:29½, by C. F. Clay, 2:18½.

2nd dam, Delilah, dam of 3. grand dam of 17, by Administrator, 2:29½.

3d dam, Mary Elmore, dam of Cleveland, 2:28¼, by Mambrino Chief. grand dam of 11.

4th dam by Star Davis.

5th dam by Brown Pilot.

Mr. Wilson also bought the sucking colt, "After The President," which he left to be weaned. It is a full brother to The President, and so like him that Mr. Wilson spied him being led through the streets and followed him half a mile to his pasture without knowing who owned him, so certain was he of the relationship.

Already crowds have gathered to see the great new horse, and they are a unit in pronouncing him a notable animal. Fast horse breeders here are greatly interested. Notwithstanding his five days on the train, the great trotter arrived here in fine shape.

The horse will be worked out on the local track, and will be entered in western races and marked this year.

The colt, After the President, has been entered all the futureties for two and three year olds.

Mr. Wilson was recognized by an old darkey at the Cecil farm who has been there 17 years. "Yo dun jes miss seein me watah de President's little brudder," was his greeting to the La Crosse turfman.

AWFUL DEED GETS QUICK REWARD

DALTON, Ga., July 1.—Twenty-five of Dalton's best citizens overpowered the jailor at 1:30 o'clock this morning, dragged "Doc" Posey, white, 35 years old, from his cell to the bridge where he was hanged for assault upon his stepdaughter, 7 years old, who died early this morning. Posey confessed.

SIX MILLIONS OF WHEAT DELIVERED

CHICAGO, July 1.—Six million bushels of July wheat delivered today on contracts created a stir on teh board of trade. This is said to be the largest transaction in actual grain ever made in Chicago. One million bushels of oats and 750 thousand bushels of corn were also delivered.

VACATION IS SPOILED

Miss Isabelle McMillan was removed yesterday to the La Crosse hospital suffering from a bad case of blood poisoning.

Miss McMillan is employed in the millinery department at the Barron company's store and it is presumed that it was caused by pricking her finger with a needle and then getting some of the dye off the artificial flowers into the wound.

The young lady was prepared to leave yesterday on a three months' visit in Spokane, Wash., where she was to spend her vacation.

HORSE ALMOST DEAD

For the first time in the history of La Crosse, as far as known, an alderman exercised his official right to arrest an individual yesterday, when Alderman Harry Palmer of the Second ward had A. Miller locked up for over-driving a horse. The man was released later on promise to pay for the damages done the animal.

Miller rented a horse and buggy at the Palmer livery Sunday.

CHAIRMEN SELECT BOOSTERS TUESDAY

WILL NAME MEN WHO WILL AID IN PROMOTION CAMPAIGN

TO ISSUE BUTTONS AT ONCE

That Will Be First Step in Enthusing La Crosse to an Appreciation of Hustling

Ways and means of getting the booster campaign under way for the city of La Crosse; the naming of committees to perfect the organization, etc., will be planned at a meeting of the executive committee with the chairmen of the different committees tomorrow afternoon at the board of trade office.

This action will result in the final arrangement for the launching of the campaign proper, and all details will be worked out by the committee. The members of the various committees will be named by the chairmen at tomorrow's meeting. The chairmen are busy selecting their men. They are looking for enterprising, wide awake boosters, men who can be placed on the different committees with a certainty that they will work hard to make the campaign a success. Every man who accepts the honor of becoming one of these committeemen will know that it will be for him to get out and hustle; hustle to make every one boost, which will eventually make a Greater La Crosse, the object in view in starting such a campaign.

No one will be derelict in his duty, that much is certain, for the boosting fever is becoming instilled in every business man and citizen of the city. After tomorrow's meeting the first thing to be done will be the issuing of the booster buttons. The button committees will at once select a design for the button and a price for its sale. When this matter is attended to they will be distributed by the committee and others, and anyone found not wearing a button will be looked upon as a very poor citizen.

SCABS REACH FRISCO; CHI. WANTS TO STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 1.—A carload of non-union operators, said to have been recruited from the eastern offices of the Western Union and Postal companies, were put to work today in places of the strikers. They are quartered in Pullman cars. Several eastern chiefs of operators have arrived.

Chi. Wants Tie-Up.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The officials of the telegraphers union believe a crisis will be reached today. Many operators do not expect to win under the present guerilla tactics. All seem anxious for a strike here, claiming that the crippling of a big center like Chicago will make them victorious.

JUDGE REID NAMED WATERWAYS COMMISSIONER BY GOV. DAVIDSON

MADISON, Wis., July 1.—(Special).—Governor Davidson this afternoon appointed Judge Ray S. Reid of La Crosse, special water commissioner for a period of three years, ending July 1, 1910.

The appointment fills the office created by the Owen-Reid waterways commission bill just passed by the legislature. Judge Reid originated the idea and worked up the interest that resulted in the passage of the bill. He became interested in the matter during his work as secretary of the La Crosse board of trade, his duties having made it necessary to investigate the river problem in connection with his ex-officio representation in the annual waterways convention.

CHINCHBUG BOSS OF BREAD SUPPLY

UNITED STATES INDICTS THE BUSY LITTLE PEST

CAUSES LOSS AND SUICIDE

Government Makes Withering Attack on Insect and Proposes Its Extermination

Washington Bureau of
The La Crosse Tribune.
Washington, D. C., July 1.

The U. S. Agricultural department has drawn an indictment against the chinch bug that makes the government fulminations against E. H. Harriman look like a paean of praise.

A lot of folks probably don't know what the chinch bug is. Briefly it is an insect that has the control of the United States bread supply in its own grip. If it was not for the careless habits of the chinch bug and the fact that it does not have the sagacity to come in when it rains there would not be enough grain raised in this country to supply the population and the price of a loaf of bread would be so high that federal regulation would be necessary.

Enormous Pecuniary Loss

Enormous peculiary losses by reason of grain destruction are laid to the chinch bug. "No other insect native to the Western Hemisphere," says a bulletin prepared by F. M. Webster of the bureau of entomology, of the agricultural department, "has spread its devastating hordes over a wider area of country with more

HAYES GETS CONTRACT

Today is the day that the 10 cents extra postage goes into effect.

Hereafter instead of going to the trouble of getting a special delivery stamp all that will be necessary is to put 10 cents over the required amount on the article and write the words "special delivery" on the face of the envelope. The words "special delivery" must be on the letter or package, however, otherwise it will take the regular course. The contract for the wagon carrying the mail from the trains was let today. Mike Hayes, the drayman, secured the contract.

MARKET COMMITTEE TO DEVISE PLANS

MEETING TO BE HELD TONIGHT TO FRAME PROGRAM

BOARD OF TRADE TOMORROW

Committee to Consider Sites and Methods and North Side Progressive League Invited

The transient merchants and a special committee appointed by President G. H. Ray to co-operate with them in the consideration of the project for a public market place here, meets at 8 o'clock this evening at the office of Judge Ray S. Reid to consider the proposition, and get ready a report for the adjourned meeting of the board of trade which will be held tomorrow night.

The members of the transient merchants' committee are Andrew Boyd, John Dengler, T. A. Lavake, John Hulberg, E. C. Josten, Ole Elbertson. The special committee is composed of C. S. Van Auken, Wm. Doerflinger, Will Funke, Frank Sisson, John M. Holley, Sr., and Homer Hart.

It is the desire of the committees and the board of trade to get the matter of a market place before the city council at once, and the committee this evening will consider various sites and methods of obtaining the market, in order to make a report to the board, which will in return make it's report or petition to the city council.

Members of the committee would not say what action was probable this evening, as several sites are under consideration.

A committee of the North Side Progressive league has been invited to attend tonight's meeting and discuss with the members their views as to the proper location for the market.

It is said north side people, as well as many of the committee, favor establishing the market on the causeway between the north and south sides.

ACT ON LICENSES

At the meeting of the common council this evening the members will act on the issuing of saloon licenses for the next year. The number will likely reach the limit, 154, as the number issued at noon today was 148. One hundred and forty-one of these were paid up.

One hundred and fifty-seven licenses were granted by the council a year ago. Whether there will be any contests over the granting of certain licenses is not known, but there are two or three saloon keepers on the anxious seat as to the outcome.

TERRIBLE FATE THREATENS HOT AND PUTRID NEW YORK

COREN'S STORE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

FLAMES BREAK OUT DURING STORM LAST EVENING

LOSS IS PROBABLY $40,000

Fire Likely Started From Defective Wiring—Loss is Fully Covered in Insurance

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night, while a severe electrical and rain storm was in progress the dry goods store of Ludwig Coren took fire in some unaccountable manner, and before the flames could be extinguished damage had been done to the extent of from $30,000 to $40,00.

Costly silks, laces and ribbons, expensive lingerie, cloaks, coats, and in fact almost every piece of merchandise in the store, was permeated with the dense black smoke which filled the building, and today Mr. Coren is entirely at sea as to the extent of his loss.

Started in Basement

The fire started in the basement, many theories being offered for its origin. Lightning coming into the store over electric wires, is the probable cause.

When the fire department arrived on the scene, the entire building was filled with smoke and great volumes were pouring from the basement windows, where the intense heat had broken the glass. Five streams of water were turned into the basement in a very short time, and windows were broken to prevent the fire from burning through the floors and going into the store above.

Much credit is due the fire department for the able manner in which the flames were confined to the basement. Within a half hour from the time the department arrived on the scene, the conflagration was under control, and Mr. Coren was assured that the remainder of his store would be undamaged, except by smoke. With the exception of a small space above the stairway no flames reached the first floor of the building.

Basement Contents Destroyed

Everything in the basement is destroyed. Fire crept along the ceilings and from shelf to shelf, sweeping everything before it. Nothing was saved. Today the remains of the valuable stock lies in soggy disorder over the floor, water-soaked, burned and black.

Smoke Does Damage

Smoke which penetrated the building has ruined a great part of the

MYSTERY BAFFLES POLICE OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—Mystery baffles the police in the shooting of two men in five minutes at Revel & Co.'s furniture factory.

John Long, 72, watchman of the factory, was found dead with a bullet in his heart, and one in his head a minute after he had registered. When an officer arived five minutes later he found J. Voelkel, 22, dead in the rear door with a bullet in his heart. A revolver with three chambers empty was found on the floor. The men had been friends. While puzzled, the police are considering the following theories:

That Voelkel sought to rob Long and the company's safe; that Long resisted and was killed, and that Voelkel, panic-stricken at hearing footsteps, shot himself rather than be taken.

That both Long and Voelkel, supposing the latter to have visited Long with friendly intent, were attacked by a third man, who shot both.

That Voelkel, in financial straits because of entanglement with a woman on whom he is known to have lavished money which he is accused of having stolen, sought to borrow from Long, as he had done frequently, and killed him in a rage on being denied.

WOMEN THRONG COURT

When the case of the state against Charles A. Sterling, who is charged with selling liquor to minors, was called today in county court, a score of women representing the W. C. T. U. of the North side appeared in the court room and took front seats. The women wish to impress upon the court the interest they take in these liquor prosecutions.

Owing to a misunderstanding among the attorneys, the case was continued until next Monday at 2 p. m. George B. Marvin, Jr., a resident of the North side is the complainant in this case.

STRIKE OF ICE AND STREET CLEANERS

FILTH AND ICELESS HEAT HOLD CITY IN PERIL

STRIKE SPREADS IN EXTENT

Garbage Makes Streets Impassable and Bonfires Burn to Overpower the Stench

NEW YORK, July 1.—This is the filthiest city in America today. The odor of accumulated garbage is unbearable, while in some of the streets teams cannot pass. The city officials are unable to get men to take the places of the striking street cleaners. Ffteen hundred men promised by Philadelphia failed to arrive this morning. The police are unable to cope with the situation on account of the demand from the ice company for their presences to protect the ice wagons from the striking ice drivers. Several special officers were clubbed and dragged from wagons this morning. The barge, bridge and stable men today joined the strikers. Sixty strike-breakers also quit.

QUAKE FELT IN EAST

SHAKE IS FURTHER OFF THAN KINGSTON

It Is Also More Severe Than That at 'Frisco

CHELTENHAM, Md., July 1.—The observatory here announces an earth-quake shock beginning at 8:14 this morning and lasting some time. The severest shock occurred from 8:20 to 8:28, its greatest motion being from north to south. The rocking of the earth was more distinct than that caused by the Kingston shock, and greater than that in the San Francisco earthquake.

Western Volcano Active

SANTIAGO, Cal., July 1.—Valdivia dispatches announce that Rinilahus volcana has renewed its activities and is now ejecting columns of boiling water. It has already caused deaths of fifteen Indian families, and scores of cattle. The eruption stopped the course of the Papasuin river with stone formed from Lava. This dam broke, flooding the surrounding country, and great explosions were caused by the molten stone striking the water.

ROCKEFELLER WILL BE SERVED TODAY

NEW YORK, July 1.—All efforts to locate Rockefeller here have failed so far. United States Marshal Henkel, armed with a Chicago subpoena, searched all last night in the vicinity of Prenticeville. He says the search will be extended to all parts of the United States if necessary.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—Marshal Henkel this morning sent word to District Attorney Sinms that he expects to serve the subpoena on Rockefeller today, and also on William Rockefeller and C. M. Pratt.

PINKERTONS HELD SWAY OVER UNIONS

BOISE, Idaho, July 1.—Judge Wood admitted the Pinkerton detective's reports. Darrow consumed a good part of the morning reading them to the jury. One showed that a Pinkerton operative who became president of the Globeville district, cut down the strike benefits and blamed Haywood, saying he opposed liberal relief. The reports showed that Pinkerton absolutely controlled the situation in every union affiliated with the federation and the United Mine Workers.

IS WITHOUT UMPIRES

Moll Seems Unable to Supply Officials

If President Charles Moll of the Wisconsin State league does not secure umpires to officiate at the league games he will find the receipts over the circuit dropping off materially. Nothing will kill the interest in baseball quicker than poor umpiring, and if any city has been receiving it La Crosse has. For the past two games a regular umpire has not been on hand to take charge of things, and an amateur doing the work, made the game laughable.

It seems that umpires could be procured at $150 a month, but the state league is without enough to cover the circuit, and the worst of it is the ones working are no good.

Long Live The King!
is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by O. F. Erhart, druggist. 50c and $1.00. HIS FIRST DAYS IN MAJOR LEAGUE

EDDIE KONETCHY DOES WELL WITH ST. LOUIS

FIELDING HAS BEEN PERFECT

Has Handled 37 Putouts Without an Error. Secured One Hit in the First Contest.

Eddie Konetchy, the late Champs' first baseman, got away in good shape in the big league in his first games according to the reports received. He played his first game with the St. Louis Cardinals, the National league club, Saturday against Cincinnati at Cincinnati, and appeared in both games at that place yesterday. In the Saturday game he had sixteen putouts and secured one hit. Yesterday he had 21 putouts in the two games, but didn't connect safely. His fielding thus far has been perfect.

In view of the fact that Eddie got away so nicely in his first games it is safe to predict that his work will grow better. The excitement and nervousness he was sure to experience at first will pass aawy.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the Cincinnati papers of Saturday printed full size pictures of Eddie and gave a sketch of his work with La Crosse. He is looked upon as one of the young comers in the business.

Georgetown Crew Says Wisconsin Had Poor Course

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—Members of the Georgetown crew, who have returned from the Poughkeepsie race are of the opinion that the Wisconsin and Navy crews are superior to the Cornell and Columbia crews. The Georgetown men think that under ordinary conditions their crew would have had third place in Wednesday's races. They declare that the Cornell and Columbia crews were greatly favored by their position in the middle of the stream. Those on the outside, they say, had to contend with the rough water and were so badly handicapped by the rough sea that there was no chance for them to show their speed. "Beef" Woods of the Georgetown crew said today that Cornell would not be among the first two were the race rowed over and he did not believe that Columbia would cut as great a figure as it did. The Badgers had the outside of what is known as the worst course on the river.

HOLDS SCHOOL

Superintendents Not Entitled to Expenses

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 31.—Circuit Judge Creighton has sustained the demurrer of Auditor of Public Accounts McCullough to the mandamaus suit brought by the people on the relation of C. E. Easterday, superintendent of the Fayette county schools, to compel the auditor to pay him $1 per diem expenses while visiting schools in that county. Judge Creighton held that the act of 1905, which fixes a flat salary for county superintendents and does away with the per diem pay for visiting schools, is a revision of the school law and not an amenlment to it, and that it is valid. The case will be taken to the higher courts.

JACOB SCHAEFER AND GEORGE SUTTON, WORLD'S BEST

AT THE ELKS CLUB SOON

Arrangements Made Saturday Evening With Mr. Al M. Kahn, the Agent of the Gentlemen.

Jacob Schaefer and George Sutton, the worlds greatest exponents of the cue, will give an exhibition at the Elks club in La Crosse in July. The exact date has not yet been decided upon, but it will be about the middle of the month as both of the gentlemen are to appear in Minneapolis July 18 and willl stop off here on their way to that city.

La Crosse billiardists and those interested in the great game of science, will be given a rare opportunity of seeing these experts perform. Al M. Kahn, agent of Messrs. Schaefer and Sutton, spent Saturday in the city and entered into an agreement with the members of the Elks club for the exhibition. It will be given in the lodge hall of the club so as to accommodate the many who will wish to witness it. Elevated seats will be installed for the occasion.

The name of Schaefer or Sutton alone should be sufficient to anyone to insure a great entertainment. Jack Schaefer is the greatest 18.1 balk line player in the world and Mr. Sutton holds the title of 18.2 champion. There is only one player who ranks in the class of these two players, Willie Hoppe of New York, the "boy wonder," who is now exhibiting in Holland. Messrs. Schaefer and Sutton has been appearing in the west and drawing immense crowds in all cities. In Indianapolis several thousand people attended their exhibition.

Mr. Stearns umpired a few games around Chicago, but he shouldn't be blamed for his poor showing yesterday as he is out of practice.

"Red" Moore made a great catch of a full ball, scraping it off the side of the grand stand.

The following was received this morning:

Dear Sir: The other day in your paper you roasted the people for not patronizing ball games. Now, do you blame them for refusing to part with their money to see such a game, not three innings, ending in a row. Have parted with my last 50 cents to see such child's play. Green Bay kicking players ought to be fired bodily out of the league.

A FAN.

It can hardly be expected that such exhibitions as Saturday and Sunday will continue throughout the season.

VENDER QUITS PARK

J. Kngooski Resigns Job at League Grounds

No more will the familiar, nasal toned cry of "peanuts, cracker-jack, chewing gum, cigars and lemonade," be heard at League park. The crier of lemo—not the lemo of the circus kind if you please, but the real article—has resigned his position and will throw off his white hat and coat to take up another position. J. Knogoski, the vender of the establishment and drinkables at the ball park leaves the park today.

(By Lefty.)

A few more games like the one of yesterday at League park and baseball here would be no attraction whatever. The champs took the Green Bay "babes" into the net to the march of 6 to 1, but this does not explain the lack of interest in the contest. Without a league official umpire to officiate, and with a young man by the name of Stearns endeavoring to do so, the exhibition was the most listless one seen here this season. Saturday the "babes"—the name is well applied—walked off the field in the third inning because of a decision and the game was forfeited 9 to 0.

Yesterday the only thing which seemed to stimulate the fans was hooting at the decisions of the umpire, the players and everyone turning the game into a farce because of some exasperating decisions.

Hits and Wildness

The contest was a one-sided event, the champs walking off with the game without any apparent effort. Bunching of hits on Manager Hastings, and the wildness at times of that individual, netted triplets on two different occasions. In the second inning he blew up and a brace of two baggers and a single brought three. Moore beat out an infield hit and stole second. Medwtzky struck out. Hazel hit one down the left field foul line for two sacks and Moore scored. Burke had a rib punctured and Hastings hit to Bidding who threw Burke out at second. Baillies connected for a two bagger into left and scored Hazel and Burke.

The one run of Green Bay was secured in the fifth. Hastings hitting for three into left center, and scoring on a single by Kernan.

The champs gathered their other three in the seventh. Burke walked and Hastings sacrificed. Baillies struck out and Cahill walked. Vogt then drove a triple into left, scoring Burke and Cahill, and completed the circuit when Bidding threw over Hartman trying to stop him at third.

Baillies pitched a strong game throughout, allowing only seven hits, and keeping them scattered.

Forfeit the Game

Manager Hastings proved himself to be a poor sport in the game of Saturday afternoon, drawing his men from the field in the third inning and forfeiting the game because he was not pleased with a decision at first base and home plate. The game went to La Crosse 9 to 0, and the fans left the park feeling dissatisfied to say the least.

In the absence of a regular umpire, Joe Hundt of this city, qualified by President Moll as an umpire to act in the absence of a regular official, was used. In the second inning Green Bay scored a run on balls, a single and an error at the plate. In the next inning La Crosse got busy and Cahill gathered a hit in center, Vogt sacrificing him to second. Bond hit one to Hartman, too hot to handle, and reached first. Moore made a race on an infield hit and was safe by a short margin. While this was going on Cahill scored and Bond came in. Steele received the ball at the plate to catch Bond, but the umpire called Moore safe. Hastings took his men off the field and there ended the play.

ELEPHANTS ARE CIRCUS BACKBONE

TRADITION OF THEIR MAKING THE CIRCUS UNTRUE

BARNUM AND BAILEY'S STRING

Have a Great Collection of the Big Brutes With Show to be Here Next Thursday.

There is a tradition among circus men that the size and character of the show are indicated to a great extent by the number of its elephants. While this is not strictly true, and a circus with a large herd of elephants may give a very inferior performance in the ring, these interesting animals are undoubtedly the backbone of the traveling menagerie. They are always a source of amusement to the crowds who throng the circus tents, and who get keen enjoyment out of a bag of peanuts and a swaying trunk that seems built for handling more satisfying forage; but apart from this, they are utilized in the performance in such a way as to establish a place for themselves on the program among the other "actors."

Elephants are Satisfactory.

"Elephants," says the old circus men, "cost a lot of money, but from the standpoint of the performer they are the cheapest thing in the show to the management. They work every day, rarely get sick, seldom 'kick' and never draw any salary. They are content to give their service for their board."

Takes Much Patience

Nevertheless it takes months of hard work and patience to teach any elephant, or a herd of elephants, an act that will be accepted by the critical public as clever. The great point in training elephants as with other animals is to attune the human intelligence to that of the brute, so that the animal can understand what the trainer is driving at. There is no use trying to accomplish anything until the trainer has succeeded in this feat. After that the work is easy. The elephant understands what is expected of him, and he soon learns to do it without urging. Wm. Ducrow, the equestrian director of the Barnum & Bailey show, who has been a close observer of trained animals' displays for many years, said the other day:

"Although I have never trained an elephant and my pupils have usually been horses, I have noticed a most interesting thing about elephants. They learn somewhat slower than horses, and they are more methodical, but they never forget what they have mentally imbibed, and their act is the same on the last day of the season as on the first. Other interesting comparisons may be made between horses and elephants.

Horses are Nervous

"Horses do not enjoy performing, as a rule, and they are nervous until their turn to act comes. This often makes them perform ahead of their turn, and thus confuse and break up a horse act. The moment they are through they seem to heve an immense sigh of relief and when, after a big horse act with the show, you see the horses scampering toward the pad tent with their manes flying and their hoofs in the air, it is because they are delighted to get through their performance in the ring.

Can Always be Trusted

"The elephant on the contrary never anticipates. He thinks the whole thing out carefully, according to his mental capacity, and then goes to work at it like an actor of the old school. When his turn comes he is there, not before. And when he is through he displays no emotion whatever. Once an elephant is trained, he can be sent into the ring and will go through his performance without further urging. The moment a horse trainer turns his back the horses will begin to loaf, and it is necessary to watch them constantly in order to get the best results. The elephants don't care whether the trainer is in evidence or not, and the main purpose of the latter in the ring is to expedite the act.

Baby Elephant a Great Draw

Those who attend the performance of the Barnum & Bailey circus when the big show exhibits in La Crosse will be astonished at the feats of the trained elephants. The three rings are entirely filled with the great beasts. The acts in the end rings are notable, but the battle scene presented in the middle ring by eight little elephants is the most remarkable exhibition of the kind ever seen in this country. The Asiatic method of firing rifles and cannon from the backs of elephants is strikingly illustrated. Elephants are also used to striking advantage in the gorgeous "Peace" spectacle. The baby elephant and mother also attracts a good deal of attention.

Many Trained Animals

Among other trained creatures are pigs, dogs, horses, cats, seals, monkeys, roosters and geese. Several of the clowns use trained animals in their performances and the effect is very ludicrous. A great circus performance, a splendid menagerie and an exciting revival of the old Roman hippodrome races are features of this year's show.

Dip of Death.

The free show which inaugurates circus day next Thursday, July 4, will take place at 11 a. m. and 6 p. m. on the show grounds and will be found a splendid substitute for the usual street parade. The engagement by the way, will serve to introduce the sensational "Dip of Death" in which a young lady "loops the gap" in an automobile; the Boller Brothers, in their sensational bicycle somersaults and Capt. Carl Howelsen in his fearful flight of 75 feet on Norwegian skis.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW IS INVALID

CHICAGO, July 1.—Judge Chytraus has decided that the new cigarette bill, supposed to go into force on Monday, fails to come up to the requirements of the constitution, and is therefore null, void, and of no effect. He said:

"The law is unconstitutional, because the word 'cigarette' according to a legal decision and lexicographers, means, when used without qualification, a cigarette made of tobacco. The act in its title purports to be an act to 'regulate' the manufacture, use, sale, and giving away of 'cigarettes,' and the first section of the act provides that no one shall be permitted to manufacture, sell, or give away cigarettes containing tobacco."

NEW YORK SUFFERS IN ICELESS FILTH

NEW YORK, July 1.—With the ice supply practically gone, due to the strike of the ice wagon drivers, and with mountains of garbage piled in the streets on account of the garbage drivers' strike, the health of New Yorkers is menaced more than ever today. The situation is so grave that the reserve policemen of Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx, were called out this afternoon. Prices of meat are jumping. The ice men will continue to deliver ice to hospitals and charitable institutions if the companies will furnish wagons.

QUEER.

Judge Loving killed a young man who, his daughter said, had made her drunk and thereafter imposed upon her.

The girl said Estes had taken her from a buggy and put her back into it. Evidence showed that she weighed 140 pounds, and her alleged assailant weighed 119.

The evidence showed that when approached on the subject by a relative at noon the next day, Miss Loving was enjoying her breakfast and laughing and chatting gaily.

In her testimony Miss Loving said that Estes (the victim) had given her whisky and that it tasted queer.

Finally, the jury was asked to acquit the defendant because he had been drunk for eight years and was in such a condition of alcoholic nervousness that the news of his daughter's wrongs made him temporarily insane. Back of this, between the lines, there was an appeal to the unwritten law.

It was queer that a 119 pound man could thus carry a 140 pound girl under his arm. It was queer that a girl who had to be "forced" to drink whisky should have discovered that it tasted "queer," and that she continued to drink the "queer" whisky. It was queer that a pure woman just robbed of what pure women value more than life should have gaily laughed and chatted over her breakfast the following noon. It was queer that being drunk for eight years should constitute a defense for killing in cold blood without giving the victim a chance to escape or defend himself, or explain. It is a trifle queer that stories of the kind the girl told cannot be refuted by evidence because courts of "justice" won't permit it.

But it isn't queer that a Virginia jury freed the cruel old debauchee who brutally slew a lascivious young man for what, in the deliberate north, would be regarded as a nasty little affair of the sort in which reform schools are interested.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE'S FRIEND

(Boston Transcript.)

A few steps from Barbara Frietchie's house in Frederick, Md., is a little store still kept by Henry M. Nixdorff, friend, neighbor and biographer of the heroine. Among his customers during the war were three confederate soldiers, under the command of Gen. Jackson, who was then raiding Frederick. They selected three pairs of shoes, and as the storekeeper had no confederate change for their $20 confederate note and would not give them United States money they laughed and went off with the shoes.

Barbara Frietchie—Mr. Nixdorff calls her Fritchie in his biographical sketch and says that "it was" thus "spelled on his small sign at the window" where Mr. Frietchie was conducting business—came in one day during the early part of the war, leaned on her staff and earnestly exclaimed: "Do not for a moment despair; stand firm."

So regardless of the famous character is the local population that the present writer, who was in Frederick recently, had to scale an eight-foot stone wall and search a full hour in tall grass before he found the low block of marble that bears the brief inscription: "Barbara Fritchie. Died Dec. 18, 1862. Aged 96 years.

The bowery dance Saturday night was attended by a fair sized crowd in spite of the rainy weather.

The picnic which was scheduled to be held at Choice last Sunday, had to be postponed until some later date, on account of the rain.

We have been unable to learn where Jake was bound for Saturday night, but we know that upon reaching half the distance he was obliged to return home on account of the rain.

We have been wondering ever since reading our last week's items how it happened that we made the ridiculous mistake of stating the ball game between Brusberg and Tawney resulted in a victory for Choice. To bestow so great a glory upon a formidible rival who do not deserve a particle of it is more than we can afford. Had we only given the honor to some other team than Choice we should have felt better about it.

LA FOLLETTE THE MAN.

(Fond du Lac Bulletin.)

The fact that the movement for greater recognition of the rights of the people and the curbing of the power of the corporations began in Wisconsin under the leadership of Senator La Follette is a great point in his favor. That movement has spread all over the country and has formed a new basis for the republican party. The party that wins in the next campaign must come close to the people. The whole country is awake and full of determination in the struggle for popular rights that is impending. No man who runs counter to the demand of the people can be elected, even if he succeeds in getting the nomination. Next year will be the people's year and they will select the next president of the United States.

Public men all over the country are awakening to the necessities of the time. They realize that corporation domination of politics is a thing of the past. They know that no man who opposes the popular movement will stand a show for the presidency next year, for the representatives of the people will sweep everything before them. The chiefs of the republican party must listen to the popular voice or the party will be defeated.

The old political issues have been worn out, and they must be discarded. There must be a new deal which the people are recognizing. There is not enough difference between the two political parties at the present time to command the adhesion of thinking men to the one or the other. As the parties take their stand on the new questions that have arisen, so the people will choose between them. If the republican party ignores the new movement it will be beaten. If it comes into line for what the people demand and presents a candidate in whom the people can have confidence it will win.

The party cannot stand longer on its past record; there must be present performance added to that record to hold its voting strength. Party ties hang loosely. The people are fighting for principles, not for ancient prejudices. The democratic party will nominate W. J. Bryan for its candidate. He stands close to the people and will prove a strong candidate. To win against him a stronger candidate must be presented. There is but one such man in sight at the present moment, and that man is Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

FASHION HINTS

(By May Manton)

5703 Bathing Suit, 34 to 42 bust.

BATHING SUIT 5703 WITH SEPARATE SKIRT THAT CAN BE GATHERED OR PLAITED.

The prevailing princess effect has made its influence felt in the bathing suits as well as in the more formal costumes of the season and many of the latest give evidence of that idea. This one is made with separate skirt, but nevertheless the plaits are so arranged as to produce the continuous lines at front and back and consequently to suggest the princess style. As illustrated the material is the black taffeta that comes for the purpose, trimmed with [illegible] silk bands and stitched with [illegible] silk, but while taffeta is a very satisfactory and well liked material, mohair and serge are equally correct and, indeed, are preferred by many women. Finish always can be varied again and again and a stitched hem and bands of the same are quite sufficient, or braid can be used, or again bands of contrasting color. In addition to the plain fabrics shepherd's checks are well liked and these are always pretty trimmed with bias bands of the material.

The suit is made with blouse, bloomers and skirt. The blouse is tucked to give a box plaited effect at front and back and in wider tucks at the shoulder edges of the fronts, while it includes short sleeves that can be left loose or gathered into bands as preferred. It is slightly open at the neck, so allowing perfect freedom at that point. The bloomers are comfortably full and are drawn up by means of elastic at the knees. A belt connects them with the blouse so that the two become one garment. The skirt is cut in five gores and forms a box plait at the center front while there is an applied one at the center back and between the two it can be either plaited or gathered.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 9¼ yards 27, 6¾ yards 44 or 5¼ yards 52 inches wide, 1 yard 27 inches wide for trimming.

The pattern 5703 is cut in sizes for 34, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measure and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.)

MARK TWAIN, LL. D.

(Pioneer Press.)

While a goodly majority of the American people are rejoicing in the honor which has been bestowed upon Mark Twain, there are a few who do not hesitate to express regret that the honor of such a degree as doctor of laws should be bestowed upon any man who has won a reputation through humorous writings. They believe, they say, that such a distinction should be reserved for those who accomplish some great work which will be of lasting benefit to the race. This is altogether too narrow a view to take of Mr. Clemens' writings. Humorist he is. This none will attempt to gainsay. But to say that he is a humorist and nothing more would be to state something which is not supported by the evidence. We have laughed long and often over the products of his brain and pen, and have perhaps chuckled over them quietly still more often, but nobody who is familiar with his writings can have failed to see much more in them than the mere desire to raise a laugh or while away a few idle moments. His earlier writings, to be sure, are devoted almost exclusively to the ridiculous. There appears to be nothing in his story of "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," for example, other than a desire to amuse, and is well-nigh perfect accomplishment of that object. And it was this production which won him his first hearing abroad. But his later writings, even when they deal with such extravagances as "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," are made vehicles for the serious thoughts of the author, and they cannot be read without a realization that they were written by a man who had studied questions of the day and had reached some absolute conclusions regarding them.

Her Own Express

During the rush of Christmas shopping a young woman entered a store in this city and bought a smoking jacket. "Of course, you will pay the express charges on this for me?" she said, with a winning smile.

"Certainly, madam," replied the clerk. "We will pay express anywhere within one hundred miles."

"What will the express charge be to Blankville, W. Va.?" she asked.

"Never mind how much it will be," said the clerk. "Whatever it may be, the amount will be paid."

"But I want to know the cost," she persisted.

"I would have to phone the express company to get it. Why are you so anxious?"

"Because I am going to Blankville, and I will carry the package out there myself and deliver it. I want you to deduct from the price of it the amount you would have to pay the express company." And then with the sweetest of smiles she added, "Remember the saying of the good old woman, 'Let nothing go to waste.'"—Washington Star.

In Spite of His Argument.

One of the justices of the supreme court tells of a young lawyer in the west who was trying his first case before Justice Harlan.

The youthful attorney had evidently conned his argument till he knew it by heart. Before he proceeded ten minutes with his oratorical effort, the justice had decided the case in his favor and had told him so. Despite this, the young lawyer would not cease. It seemed that he had attained such a momentum that he could not stop.

Finally Justice Harlan leaned forward, and in the politest of tones said, "Mr. Blank, notwithstanding your arguments, the court has concluded to decide this case in your favor."—Sunday Magazine.

"Do you realize what you're risking?" Cherry demanded. "That man is an animal. You'll have to kill him to save yourself, and he'll never give up those proofs."

"Yes, he will," said Helen, fiercely, "and I defy him to harm me. The Sign of the Sled is a public roadhouse with a landlord, a telephone, and other guests. Will you warn Mr. Glenister about the troops?"

"I will, and bless you for a brave girl. Wait a moment." Cherry took from the dresser her tiny revolver. "Don't hesitate to use this. I want you to know also that I'm sorry for what I said yesterday."

As she hurried away, Helen realized with a shock the change that the past few months had wrought in her. In truth, it was as Glenister had said, his Northland worked strangely with its denizens. What of that shrinking girl who had stepped out of the sheltered life, strong only in her untried honesty, to become a hunted, harried thing, juggling with honor and reputation, in her heart a half-formed fear that she might kill a man this night to gain her end? The elements were moulding her with irresistible hands. Roy's contact with the primitive had not roughened him more quickly than had hers.

She met her appointment with Struve, and they rode away together, he talkative and elated, she silent and icy.

Late in the afternoon the cloud banks to the eastward assumed alarming proportions. They brought with them an early nightfall, and when they broke let forth a tempest which rivalled that of the previous night. During the first of it armed men came sifting into McNamara's office from the rear and were hidden throughout the building. Whenever he descried a peculiarly desperate ruffian the boss called him aside for private instruction and gave minute description of a wide-shouldered, erect youth in white hat and half-boots. Gradually he set his trap with the men Voorhees had raked from the slums, and when it was done smiled to himself. As he thought it over he ceased to regret the miscarriage of last night's plan, for it had served to goad his enemies to the point he desired, to the point where they would rush to their own undoing. He thought with satisfaction of the role he would play in the United States press when the sensational news of this night's adventure came out. A court official who dared to do his duty despite a lawless mob. A receiver who turned a midnight attack into a rout and shambles. That is what they would say. What if he did exceed his authority thereafter? What if there were a scandal? Who would question? As to soldiers—no, decidedly no. He wished no help of soldiers at this time.

The sight of a ship in the offing towards dark caused him some uneasiness, for, notwithstanding the assurance that the course of justice in San Francisco courts had been clogged, he knew Bill Wheaton to be a resourceful lawyer and a determined man. Therefore, it relieved him to note the rising gale, which precluded the possibility of interference from that source. Let them come tomorrow if they would. By that time some of the mines would be ownerless and his position strengthened a hundredfold.

He telephoned the mines to throw out guards, although he reasoned that none but madmen would think of striking there in the face of the warning which he knew must have been transmitted through Helen. Putting on his rain-coat he sought Stillman.

"Bring your niece over to my place tonight. There's trouble in the air and I'm prepared for it."

"She hasn't returned from her ride yet. I'm afraid she's caught in the storm." The Judge gazed anxiously into the darkness.

During all the long day the Vigilantes lay in hiding, impatient at their idleness and wondering at the lack of effort made towards their discovery, not dreaming that McNamara had more cleverly hidden plans behind. When Cherry's note of warning came they gathered in the back room and gave voice to their opinions.

"There's only one way to clear the atmosphere," said the chairman. "You bet,' chorused the others. "They've garrisoned the mines, so let's go through the town and make a clean job of it. Let's hang the whole outfit to one post."

This met with general approval, Glenister alone demurring. Said he: "I have reasoned it out differently, and I want you to hear me through before deciding. Last night I got word from Wheaton that the California courts are against us. He attributes it to influence, but, whatever the reason, we are cut off from all legal help either in this court or on appeal. Now, suppose we lynch these officials tonight—what do we gain? Martial law in two hours, our mines tied up for another year, and who knows what else? Maybe a corrupter court next season. Suppose, on the other hand, we fail—and somehow I feel that we will, for that boss is no fool. What then? Those of us who don't find the morgue will end in jail. You say we can't meet the soldiers. I say we can and must. We must carry this row to them. We must jump it past the courts of Alaska, past the courts of California, and up to the White House, where there's one honest man, at least. We must do something to wake up the men in Washington. We must get out of politics, for McNamara can beat us there. Although he's a strong man he can't corrupt the president. We have one shot left, and it must reach the Potomac. When Uncle Sam takes a hand we'll get a square deal, so I say let us strike at the Midas tonight and take her if we can. Some of us will go down, but what of it?"

Following this harangue, he outlined a plan which in its unique daring took away their breaths, and as he filled in detail after detail they brightened with excitement and that love of the long chance which makes gamblers of those who thread the silent valleys or tread the edge of things. His boldness stirred them and enthusiasm did the rest.

"All I want for myself," he said, "is the chance to run the big risk. It's mine by right."

Dextry spoke, breathlessly, to Slapjack in the pause which ensued: "Ain't he a heller?"

"We'll go you," the miners chimed to a man. And the chairman added: "Let's have Glenister lead this forlorn hope. I am willing to stand or fall on his judgment." They acquiesced without a dissenting voice, and with the firm hands of a natural leader the young man took control.

"Let's hurry up," said one [illegible] a long 'mush' and the mud [illegible] deep."

KILLS HIS WIFE WITH WOODEN STICK

WAVERLY (MINN.) MAN CONFESSES TO CRIME

ASSAULTED WITH BREAD KNIFE

After Continual Quarrel Husband Commits Horrible Crime—Surrenders to Marshal

WAVERLY, Minn., July 1.—Because his wife cut his wrist with a breadknife after refusing to cook dinner for him, John J. Mooney killed her by striking her on the head with a stick of stove wood.

Mooney,who expresses almost frenzied grief over his crime, is well known throughout Wright county, and the tragedy has caused a sensation.

Back of the tragedy is a story of continual quarreling between man and wife that began about two years ago, when Miss Mary T. Reichel of St. Paul secured a verdict against Mooney for $5,500 damages for breach of promise. Mooney had been married but a short time when the litigation was terminated.

Mooney says he went home for dinner and found that none had been prepared.

Mooney proceeded to cook his own meal, and, according to the prisoner, his wife began to scold. He told her to go into another room and leave him to cook his dinner in peace.

Mrs. Mooney obeyed, but returned a minute later with a breadknife and stabbed him in the wrist, he says. Mooney, who was putting a stick of wood in the stove turned quickly and hit the woman a hard blow on the head with the stick, killing her.

He gave himself up to Marshal Kritzeck. The coroner and sheriff were sent for.

BECHTEL DRAWS FIVE YEAR TERM

LIFE INSURANCE SWINDLER IS SENTENCED

GRAND LARCENY IS CHARGE

Stay of Execution Granted for Purpose of Asking for New Trial

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 1.—W. F. Bechtel, former president of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis, was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary at Stillwater, by Judge H. D. Dickinson of Minneapolis. Bechtel was convicted of grand larceny in the first degree as the result of a fraudulent agreement between officers of the insurance company.

Bechtel was granted a stay of execution until Aug. 5, at which time a motion for a new trial will be argued. There being a continuing bail bond in the sum of $10,000, the prisoner was released on the old bond until the date set when he is ordered to appear.

The convicted insurance president was to have been sentenced today, but his attorneys decided yesterday to ask the court to pass Saturday before the stipulated time. Al J. Smith, county attorney, before sentence was passed, asked the court to use clemency, as Bechtel always had been willing to give testimony in the other cases connected with the insurance scandal and never had refused to answer questions or endeavored to claim his privilege of exemption from giving testimony.

UNKNOWN MAN DEAD

Stranger Is Killed in the Dubuque Yards

Railroad men have brought to this city news of the death of an unknown man in the yards at Dubuque Saturday night.

According to the story the man, who it is said was sleeping on the tracks, was horribly mangled by a switch engine.

The engine was running at a fair rate of speed when one of the switchmen noticed the body lying on the tracks and immediately gave the signal to stop. Owing to the rate of speed at which the engine was traveling, it was impossible to stop the engine passed over him, cutting off both legs.

A physician was summoned who dressed the wounds and the man was hurried to the hospital, but all attempts to save his life proved futile. A carpenter's rule was found near where the body was hit and it is presumed that it belonged to the unfortunate man.

Engineer J. Weigand and Fireman Frank Grandgnet were in charge of the engine while N. Belden and F. A. Jones composed the crew that witnessed the accident.

The body has not been identified.

BRAKEMAN DROWNED

Man Here Seeking Work Dies in River at Red Wing

John Hopkins, while attempting to cross the river at Red Wing, Minn., was drowned Thursday evening. Hopkins in the company of Martin Reardon had arrived in Red Wing in the afternoon and started for a row on the river. While attempting to change his seat Hopkins capsized the boat. A number of people witnessed the accident and aid was immediately started in their direction. Reardon, being a good swimmer succeeded in keeping above water, but Hopkins sank before help reached him. The body was recovered Friday.

Both of the men were in La Crosse on the day previous looking for work around the railroad yards in this city. As this is a dull season in the yards they failed to find employment and set out for Red Wing.

Hopkins was 42 years of age. He was at one time yardmaster in the South Chicago yards, but quit during the strike of 1894.

PAY LARGE SALARIES

Railroad Contractors Are on North Side for Men

La Crosse has been visited in the last few days by a couple of agents of two railroad construction firms who are hiring men. The wages offered by the firms were alluring and they succeeded in getting a number of men from La Crosse. In endeavoring to get men enough to do the work they have contracted for the railroad construction contractors have been driven almost to desperation.

All men that are available demand top prices for their work and in consequence wages paid are higher than they have been for some time.

WISCONSIN NEWS

HOMECOMING WEEK IS ON AT MADISON

CAPITOL CITY IS IN GALA ATTIRE TODAY

BARNUM AND BAILEY FIGURES

Big Circus Has Been Appropriated as a Feature of Festal Week of Madisonians

MADISON, Wis., July 1.—(Special).—Madison this week is in gala attire to welcome home the thousands of former citizens who have been invited here to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the city. All the buildings are gaily decorated with bunting, while thousands of extra incandescent and arc lights add to the beauty of the streets at night. The first day of the home-coming is tomorrow, but little in the entertainment line will be offered then. The committee feels that the first day should be devoted to the calm pleasure of family visits.

Wednesday is the time set for the big Barnum & Bailey's circus. To this show the plans of the committee have been subordinated. Performances of specially hired acrobats and professional entertainers will be given on the square all day long for those who are not lured away by the good things the circus has to offer.

Thursday is the date of the big home-coming concert, probably the greatest musical feature ever attempted in Madison. Five hundred trained voices will sing the national songs, while Christine Neilson, Bertha Waltzinger and Rolf Hammer, with other Madison soloists, will render special musical numbers. Five thousand persons are expected to be in the gymnasium to listen to the music. E. A. Bredin of the university school of music is the conductor.

Of course it is to be expected that the Fourth will be a big day. The usual speech making will be a feature, while a $2,500 fireworks display will be made in the evening from a float in Lake Monona. The speaker of the day will be Col. G. W. Bird, who received the complimentary democratic vote during the "late senatorial unpleasantness," and E. W. Keyes—better known to the state as "Boss" Keyes—will welcome home the former residents.

Saturday night is to be the time for those who love the water, there being a procession of all manner of water craft scheduled for that evening. This is called the "Venetian night."

In addition to all this there will be parades of all the fraternal organizations, labor unions, soldiers, G. A. R.—every society that can muster a sufficient membership to make an impression. A half dozen bands will dispense music every day, while special shows of the "clean" variety will furnish amusement to those who cannot find joy in admiring Madison beauty.

Since many Madisonians are now living in La Crosse and other points in that vicinity, the home-coming committee is looking forward to a representative delegation from the western border of the state. Special rates of a fare and a third have been granted by the Western passenger association and the time limit—July 28—permits a long visit to be made.

HOLY JUMPERS SUE SHERIFF FOR $30,000

WAUKESHA FANATICS TURN TABLES ON OFFICERS

SIX SUE FOR $5,000 EACH

Allege They Were Arrested Without Cause and Thrown Into Dirty Quarters and Abused

WAUKESHA, Wis., July 1.—Suits have been started against Sheriff George L. Dwinnell of this county for damages aggregating $30,000 as a result of the arrest and jailing on May 28, this year, of sixteen members of the Metropolitan Church association, better known among the worldly wise people as the "Holy Jumpers."

Six of the individuals who were captured and placed in durance vile by Sheriff Dwinnell have at least made the attempt to turn the "tables" on him and seek to enrich their respective exchequers with a suit for $5,000 damages. They allege brutal treatment and say arrests were not provoked.

It is said on behalf of the Holy Jumpers that they are a moral people, and good citizens excepting for the annoying feature of their eccentric religion.

BADGER BRIEFS

He drove out too far and the wagon turned turtle, taking the horse with it. The life saving crew was unable to save the horse.

OCONOMOWOC—Wm. Schmidt, aged 32, of Milwaukee, drowned in Okauchee lake Saturday at midnight while bathing. The body was recovered late tonight and taken to Milwaukee.

MARINETTE—Architects' plans have been adopted for the new Masonic temple to be built here this summer at a cost of about $20,000, of brick and stone.

MRS. OLSON HAS HER DYE WORKS

FRUIT RESCINDS HIS ORDER ISSUED SATURDAY

HUSBAND IS ORDERED AWAY

Woman Who Defied Intrusion at Point of a Revolver Is Still Queen of Her Business

Mrs. Elenora Olson reigns supreme over the New York Dye works establishment, located on State street between Fifth and Sixth. Today she is the sole possessor of the place, conducting the business as of old, and no one has the right to interfere with her. Judge Fruit rescinded his order of Friday, granting the husband, George Olson, a temporary injunction restraining Mrs Olson from interfering with his control of the business, and issued a new order prohibiting the husband from entering the place or in any way interfering with her.

When the train pulled in from Viroqua Saturday evening, Attorney Jesse Higbee, representing Mrs. Olson, was there and secured an interview with Judge Fruit, who was returning from Viroqua. The judge did not clearly understand the circumstances of the case, and on learning what action had been taken on the order issued by him to Mr. Olson, immediately withdrew it and took the action above. At 7 o'clock Saturday evening Olson and his brother were served with the papers and forced to leave the place.

Stayed all Day.

Saturday afternoon, and up to 7 o'clock in the evening, Mrs. Olson, Mr. Olson and Mr. Olson's brother, remained on the premises, intent on keeping possession of the place. Mrs. Olson sat behind the counter, Mr. Olson sat on the counter and the brother kept watch on the outside. They looked straight out of the front window, neither spoke a word, and the situation was not changed until evening. The situation was enjoyed by many who happened to go by the place.

Brings a Supper.

The situation took a serious turn shortly before 7 o'clock, however, and almost resulted badly for a small lad. Olson had ordered his supper sent up to the place. The restaurant it was ordered from sent it by a small lad. As he entered the place Mrs. Olson asked who it was for and when told, burst out with, "Get out of here or I will throw the stuff into the gutter," at the same time making a dash for the door. The boy fled and Olson didn't get his supper. Shortly after, however, the officials appeared on the scene and the enemy withdrew from the field.

EXCITED

drugged her and hidden her away, or had in other ways secreted her from him.

Gus Wall, the regular city marshal, was out of the city and had left his star with John Mackey, the well known hardware dealer. Comeau sought out Mackey and induced him to go to the Hurd residence to conduct a search for Miss Birdie. This availed nothing, and no traces of the young woman were found.

Comeau was reported to have come to La Crosse to consult an attorney but he denies this and says he will settle the whole affair when the girl's father comes home.

Says He Abused Her

Mrs. A. J. Hurd, mother of the girl, said this morning there was no mystery concerning her daughter's whereabouts, except that she had left Onalaska of her own free will and accord to escape the attentions of Comeau.

Mrs. Hurd said today that her daughter charged Comeau with abusing her, and even going so far as to strike her. She said her daughter and Comeau were engaged but that the girl, had determined to stand for no more of the alleged indignities and had left the city. Mrs. Hurd said that her daughter wrote Comeau a letter informing him that the engagement was off and that she would have nothing to do with him.

Mrs. Hurd declined to say where her daughter had gone, declaring she would not reveal her whereabouts because it was desired to keep young Comeau in ignorance of where she is.

A. J. Hurd, father of the young woman, who is a traveling man, is expected home by his wife tomorrow night, at which time she expects to have a settlement of the mix-up. She denied that Comeau sent the marshal to search the house and intimated it would do him no good if he did.

Miss Hurd is about 19 years of age and is a popular girl in Onalaska. Comeau, who is about 23 years old, is regarded as a good citizen and is well liked in Onalaska. All parties interviewed regarding the matter term it a bad "mix-up," and seem inclined not to say very much about it.

BATTLE AGAINST LOW RAILROAD RATES

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 1.—Judge Pritchard, in the United States court here has joined the railroad commissioners of the state of North Carolina from enforcing the reduced rate enactment of the last legislature pending a further hearing of the cases of the Southern railway and the stockholders of the Atlantic Coast line, which were referred to a master in chancery.

CHINCHBUG .

fatal effects to the staple grains of North America than has this one."

It is estimated by the department of agriculture that in the period from 1850 to 1906 the chinch bug has cost the country $330,000,000, or a third of a billion dollars. If the indirect losses are added to this, it would be an enormous sum. The states that have suffered chiefly are nine, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas. Oklahoma and northern Texas also have suffered and various other states have incurred some loss.

"When we take into consideration," says Mr. Webster, that the financial losses as estimated have not fallen upon the entire nation, but almost without exception upon the nine states previously named, it will be seen that this diminutive insect constitutes a formidable enemy to the agriculturist of these states. In fact, small as it is, this pest has cost the people of these nine states a sum of money which, a few years ago, would have defrayed the entire expense of the national government for a whole year. Fire excepted, there is probably no other factor that has caused such an enormous financial loss within the same period over the same area of country."

Driven to Suicide

Farmers have even been driven to suicide by the relentless chinch bug When the outbreak in Ohio was at its worst, two farmers became discouraged over the prospects of financial ruin caused by the destruction of their crops by the chinch bug and in despondency committed suicide.

Wheat, corn and other small grain and grasses, all are forage for the chinch bug. On the score of lineage, it has claims to distinction, for as far back as 1785 it was ravaging the wheat fields of South Carolina.

Exposure Kills Young Bugs

Were it not for the fact the young chinch bugs are swept away in hordes by heavy rains, none of the insect's habits seeming to be directed to adequate protection against rain for the newly hatched bugs, there is no telling how severe would be the ravages. The adult bugs are capable of standing wet and cold but the young bugs cannot stand exposure and millions are killed by the elements. Then, too, in selecting their winter quarters, the adults are not always judicious and many die in the winter season, although as a rule the adult is able to stand much cold and wet weather combined.

The migrations of the chinch bugs, as told of by Mr. Webster, are as interesting as the movements of the hordes of the Huns or Goths. It is declared that they have a habit, when the weather is favorable to migration, of crawling along the fences or resting on tops of fence-posts, taking observations seemingly, and in reality to catch the scent of wheat or corn fields. Sometimes, it simply crawls from its hibernating place to the nearest supply of food if it is close at hand. At other times, migration to the grain fields is by flight.

Remedial Measures Recommended

The chinch bug has a great many natural enemies, including frogs, quail and other birds, spiders, ants, lady-beetles, flower bugs and various bacterial and fungous enemies. All these enemies, however, combined, are not able to stop the pest's increase. A number of remedial and preventive measures are recommended by the bureau of entomology, one of them being to attack the chinch bug in its winter quarters and burn it by firing all dried grass, leaves or other rubbish.

DROWNING SCARE STIRS ONALASKA

SEARCHING PARTY LOOKS FOR YOUNG WRIGHT BOY

FOUND ON FRENCH ISLAND

Two Others Were Drowned During Flood and Mrs. Rosa Wright Was Aunt by Marriage

For several hours on Saturday residents of Onalaska searched for the young son of George Wright, the blacksmith, and a young friend from La Crosse, who had gone out boat riding during the afternoon without permission or informing anyone of their intentions.

The boat was found adrift, and Mr. Wright at once organized searching parties, believing his only remaining boy had been drowned.

After considerable search the boys were found on French Island, to which place they had rowed. The boat which had been tied up to the bank had drifted away, leading those who found it to believe that the boys had been drowned.

A couple of years ago, during a flood stage of the river, two other sons of George Wright were drowned.

Herbie Wright, brother of George, who was an Onalaska harnessmaker, committed suicide a few years ago after trying to kill his wife, Mrs. Rosa Wright. During the month of May, this year, Mrs. Rosa Wright, his widow, was drowned in company with William Van Camp and her body has not been recovered.

In view of these fatalities, the father of the boy was considerably frightened when the report came in that his only remaining son was missing and that a skiff had been found floating in the river.

The boys, however, were having a good time on the island and were unaware their anxious parents and a number of Onalaska citizens were searching for them.

The La Crosse boy with young Wright was young Kabat of the north side.

CIRCUIT COURT OPEN

Fruit Returns from Viroqua to Take Up Local Grist

Circuit Judge J. J. Fruit returned Saturday evening from Viroqua, where he has held an exceptionally long term of court. The Barney Olson case which was before the court for over a week, was the most important. The judge will return to Viroqua July 15 for another short session.

A number of divorce cases are occupying the court today. The most important case to be heard here this session, is that of C. M. Hilliard as trustee in bankruptcy of Charles Johnson, a bankrupt, vs. the Eau Claire Grocery company, a corporation. A jury for this case was selected at the May term of court. The case will be heard next Monday.

New Goods Burned

Today a busy group of clerks and bookkeepers are working, attempting to straighten out affairs and get at somewhere near the figures of the loss. This will be a very difficult undertaking, however, as much of the basement stock was of a consignment just received, which had not been listed as yet.

When seen today Mr. Coren said: "We will attempt to get things into shape, and open up again as soon as possible. This comes just at our busiest season, and we cannot afford to remain closed any longer than we can help. A meeting of the underwriters will be held at once, and I am anxious to get a speedy adjustment.

You can see for yourself what the damage amounts to. It is impossible to make even a guess at what the figures are. The basement is a total loss. The remainder of the stock is greatly damaged. The loss will be $30,000 or $40,000 or more. It is covered by insurance."

Firemen Overcome

Owing to the dense smoke it was almost impossible for firemen to enter the building, and many were led out overcome by the fumes. Mr. Coren made several unsuccessful attempts to get to his books, but each time was assisted out almost overcome.

The insurance is held by the following companies, in the amounts set opposite their names:

Home, of New York	$4,000
Fireman's fund	1,000
Phoenix, of London	2,000

In order to facilitate the adjustment of the loss and enable him to reopen for business Mr. Coren will make an effort to secure the appointment of an adjustment bureau by the underwriters, to adjust his claim. In this case only two or three adjusters will be sent here to care for the interests of all of the underwriters.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES
No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in most instances that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These humors and acids get into the blood, generally because of an inactive and sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse of the body. This unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment, and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood, in its effort to rid itself of this foreign matter, begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin. These coming in contact with the delicate tissues and fibers with which the skin is so abundantly supplied produces irritation and inflammation on the surface, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, or some other troublesome and disfiguring skin disease is the result. External applications, while they soothe the itching, and are beneficial in keeping the skin clean, can never cure skin affections, because they do not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only permanent cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers, is the best treatment. It cures by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the circulation so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acrid matter, is nourished and soothed by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, removes the foreign matter and thereby permanently cures every form of skin trouble. Do not expect to cure a blood disease with local applications alone, but begin the use of S. S. S., and when you have removed the cause the skin will be free from disease. PRESIDENT PRAISES RIIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 1.—President Roosevelt has written Jacob A. Riis glowing congratulations upon the sociologist's prospective marriage to his literary assistant, Miss Mary Phillips of St. Louis. He tells the friend whom he called "The most useful citizen in the United States" that he has fulfilled the divine intention, according to a letter received today by Richard Phillips, father of Mr. Riis' fiancee.

"My daughter is 30 years of age," said Mr. Phillips. "I may be pardoned if I take pride in saying that she is a girl of extraordinary character and lofty aspirations. While there is ea wide difference between the ages of herself and Mr. Riis, I feel that it will be an ideal union of temperaments."

Mr. Phillips is a cotton broker here for English firms.

DIRT DON'T MOVE UNDER NEW BOSS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—Despite the emphatic denial made by Secretary of War Taft that another crisis has been reached in the affairs of the Panama canal, there is a decided feeling of unrest and worry manifest about the headquarters of the isthmian commission here and at the war department, for which ample allowance must be made before Judge Taft's statement can be rightly judged.

The amount of dirt excavated has slumped over 150,000 cubic yards and the cost has increased greatly under the new management.

BUCCANEERS' OUTING

Non-Arrival of Noah Fritz Condemned to Deluge

(La Crosse Labor Journal.)

Ye Bold Buccaneers, composed of Louis Weisbecker, Chas. Kowalke Fred Stingle, Henry Young, Billy Koehn, Gus Bender, George Gruber, and P. Lavallee boarded The Jolly Fritz early last Sunday morning and made a descent upon Dresden Island. The party was well supplied with the ammunition of war and a determination to do justice to the occasion. The day was rich with incidents that will live long in the memories of those who sought a closer touch of nature. Among the most salient features of the outing can be mentioned Young's plastic poses and the pelting he received from the gang compelling him to resume his clothes; the frantic effort of Billy Koehn to flag the J. S. during the downpour; the "duck on the rock" game, Gust Bender's wonderful capacity, Pierre's pants, and the steady, gradual, sure reduction of the "visible supply." "The Bottom of the Sea" was plugged up early, often and late. The aftermath was in keeping with the day's doings.

"And the weend she blow lake hurrican,
An bemby she blow some more;
And the scow bust up on lake St. Pierre
About half a mile from de shore."

LAUNCH TURNS OVER

Ten Narrowly Escape Death in the River

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 1.—Ten persons, including four girls, miraculously escaped death by drowning in the Milwaukee river at the foot of Erie street by the capsizing of a gasoline launch at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

In Swell of a Steamer

The launch was making the harbor when the steamer City of Chicago, Goodrich line, was leaving this port. The side wheels of the Chicago churned the water into a high sea, which caught the launch. The launch was caught in the trough as the water receded and turned turtle, throwing its occupants into the water.

Howard Williams and relatives were in the boat, which he invented and built himself. All were rescued by boats from the nearby life saving station.

USES REVOLVER AFTER QUARREL

AMERY, Wis., July 1.—Magnus Thompson is dead and Minnie Flanum is dangerously wounded because the pathway of their love did not run smoothly enough to suit Thompson.

Thompson had been keeping company with the young woman, who lives with her parents in the town of Blackbrook, Polk county. The couple quarreled recently, and Thompson apparently brooded over the ensuing separation.

Last night he went to the home of the girl's parents, and calling her to the door, fired at her, two bullets taking effect. He then turned the gun upon himself, dying instantly. In his pocket was found this note:

"If Minnie and I can not live together, we can die together, and I wish to be buried by her side.

She has a chance to recover.

LOVING FREED BY RUM AND HATE

JURY ACQUITS SLAYER OF ESTES IN HASTE

THE UNWRITTEN LAW IS FELT

Drunk for Eight Years, His Mind Erratic, Is Enough Excuse for Slaying Immoral Man

HOUSTON, Va., July 1.—The "unwritten law," invoked by a man whose reason had been dethroned by eight years of drunkenness, was vindicated Saturday afternoon in the W. G. Loving case.

Within thirty-five minutes after the court's charge was delivered to the jury, the twelve men good and true unanimously decided that the former judge was not guilty of murder when he killed Theodore Estes at Oak Ridge last April.

They decided he was crazy and that his insanity was natural under the circumstances testified to during the week.

Story of Fatal Drive.

On Sunday, April 21, Estes and Elizabeth Loving went driving over the country roads near Lovingston. During the afternoon, according to the story of the girl, the young man induced her to drink whisky, which she said tasted "queer." While she was under the influence of the intoxicant, seh asserted, Estes mistreated her, later taking her to the home of a Miss Kidd, a mutual friend.

She spent the night at the Kidd home. A doctor was called by Estes to look after her. Loving girl's uncle, Harry Snead, heard of the doctor's visit. His supicions were aroused and he conducted an investigation into the causes for the girl's condition.

The next day, while Elizabeth Loving was chatting gayly over her noon breakfast with her friends, Snead was telling Judge Loving the result of his investigation.

Loving, if the testimony at the trial was correct, was almost stupefied. He conferred with his wife and sent for his daughter. The latter was taken in a carriage to her father's home and there questioned about the drive with Estes.

The girl swore at her father's trial that she told him Estes first made her drunk and then attacked her.

Whether her story was true or not, Loving hunted Estes down and killed him. The man slain was in a freight car superintending the work of two negro laborers.

Estes had no chance to defend himself. Loving accused him of the wrong and used his hotgun at the same moment.

Immediately after the shooting Loving surrendered. He was indicted on trial formally pleaded insanity, though his attorneys dwelt on the "unwritten law" throughout the hearing of testimony and the argument to the jury.

Elizabeth Loving bared her shame in court and the state was not allowed to attack its veracity on the ground that it was what he said to her father and no what occurred to her that caused him to kill Estes.

DIES FOR LOVE SHE DIDN'T GET

MADISON, Wis., July 1.—Because the young man with whom she was in love did not appear to reciprocate her affection, Miss Anna F. Ruddy, aged 22 years, daughter of Mrs. Bernard Ruddy of Westport, waded out into Lake Mendota at the end of North Hancock street at noon today and deliberately drowned herself.

Miss Ruddy was in love with Sever Johnson, and made her home with his mother at 316 East Main street. On the inside of her watch case was found a note reading: "The last I say is good-by dear Sever."

GRANT COUNTY FOR R. M. LA FOLLETTE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 1.—"There is no sentiment in our county adverse to La Follette. If the senator needs the Grant county delegation, it will be his. There will be no opposition," said Robert Glenn Lancaster, ex-sheriff of Grant county, at the St. Charles hotel yesterday.

WOODS IS ARRESTED

ST. PAUL, July 1.—Officers of the Wisconsin Stock and Grain company were arrested here Saturday on federal warrants.

The charge is using the United States mails to defraud.

The accused officials are L. A. Wood, George W. Wood, Clinton D. Phelps, Martin P. Quigley, Charles T. Kelly, Bruce D. Tuttle and H. P. Ernsberger.

L. A. Wood, George W. Wood, Quigley and Tuttle were arraigned before United States Commissioner Spencer. Quigley and Tuttle were released on a $3,000 bond, while the Woods put up $5,000 bail apiece.

Others Arrested.

Phelps, Kelly and Ernsberger were arraigned before Commissioner Spencer pleading not guilty, and were released on $3,000 bail each.

Hearing Next Friday.

All of the cases have been continued until next Friday, when a hearing before the United States commissioner will determine if the accused shall be held to the federal grand jury which meets next October.

Postoffice Inspector W. M. Ketcham of Chicago, who was detailed on the case six months ago, has found 65 complaints who assert that the methods of the company are not as represented. The transactions of these complainants amount to $342,000. They claim their trades were fictitious, b"ucketed" and not placed legitimately on a board of trade.
